

PARCEL POST SAFE FOR SHIPPING EGGS

Department of Agriculture Experiment Shows Method Is Satisfactory.

In a series of experiments conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture, 9,131 eggs were sent through the mails in 466 shipments from 1 to 100 eggs each, and 1,000 of these, 118 were only cracked or slightly broken and unusable, and 29 (or 2.9 per cent) were broken beyond use. Twenty-one eggs were broken because the parcels containing them were handled contrary to postal rules and regulations.

Subtracting these, the loss was only 1.3 per cent. This shows the possibility of shipping eggs by parcel post with small loss, and indicates that eggs may be so shipped with safety if existing postal regulations are observed.

Wrap Each Egg.
Care should be exercised in the production of eggs so that they will be of as good quality as possible to begin with. The hen should be provided with proper quarters and fed on clean, wholesome food. The production of non-fertile eggs reduces the losses materially. After gathering, the eggs should be kept carefully in the coolest and best ventilated place available.

Prices Justify Trouble.
The address should be plainly written to insure prompt delivery on arrival. The postal regulations require the name and address of the sender on the parcel also.

If attention is given to the necessary details, as indicated in this bulletin, eggs can be shipped by parcel post to the advantage of the farmer. This method of marketing affords a means of increasing fresh-egg business to the benefit of the producer and the consumer, by marketing direct while the eggs are still in fresh condition.

AVERAGE HEN'S EGG WEIGHS TWO OUNCES

Parcel Post Rate on Dozen in Carton From 6 Cents Up.

Average hens' eggs will weigh about one and one-half pounds to the dozen, or 2 ounces apiece. The weight of a single dozen of eggs in a carton properly packed and wrapped for mailing will run from two to three pounds, depending on the nature of the particular container, the size of the eggs, and the packing and wrapping used.

If the container be a very light one, and the eggs be packed in the carton with the two-pound limit, and the postage thereon within the first and second zones, or 150-mile limit, would be 6 cents.

PACKING OF EGGS IN WATER SOLUTION
Standard Grade May Be Obtained Rather Cheaply.

In the spring, when they are plentiful, eggs may be preserved for home use in a solution of water glass, so that those laid during the fall and winter season may be available for marketing.

Eggs for Hatching.
In preparing for mailing eggs intended for hatching purposes, great care should be taken to see that each egg is wrapped with sufficient material to hold it snugly and yet not too rigidly in its compartment, says the Department of Agriculture.
